

Barber Shop History

According to a recent letter to the Crosby Courier, in the early 1900's there was area on the west end of Crosby called "Lakeview" and it had a hamburger shop. Many of the residents were miners and many of them were single, so the shop prospered and became the James Coffee Shop. Then it became Harry's Barber Shop where, in addition to getting your hair cut, you could have a sauna.

Today it's Tuck's Barber Shop. You can see the little building when you drive west from Crosby toward Ironton. If you look closely you may see one of our most prolific (and appreciated) photographers in the chair.
